The General Manager – JOLU GROUP
Mr. Shem Njoroge
During our Mega Company Launch
On 23rd Aug, 2025
Nairobi, Kenya

My name is Shem, and it is my greatest honor to welcome you to the official launch of our companies; Jolu Group Security and Jolu Machineries. Today is a historic day for us, because we are not just opening an office; we are laying a foundation for a vision that will impact lives, create opportunities, and transform industries.

The story of Jolu Group is one of vision, trust, and determination. My own encounter with the CEO Mr. John is where this vision began. Years ago, while working in the construction industry, I met him during the very year he laid the foundation of Zoomlion Agricultural Machineries in Kenya. From that day, we built a rapport anchored on shared values and ambitions. Fast forward to 2024, Mr. John introduced me to the idea of creating something greater – and Jolu Machineries was born.

I vividly recall December 19th, while on a business trip from Kisumu in company of Mr. John and the area manager, a day etched in my memory. This was when Jolu Group Security was officially approved. That moment sealed our destiny.

Today, we stand here with a vision:

Jolu Group envisions regional growth beyond Kenya by driving innovation through technology, expanding sales channels, and strengthening partnerships. From advanced security solutions like biometrics and surveillance to modern agricultural machinery, we strive to empower businesses, farmers, and communities while playing a key role in Africa's growth and mechanization journey.

But why did we take this path? Because challenges demanded it. Insecurity has been on the rise, and professionalism in private security is more needed now than ever before. Clients are asking for solutions, not just guards, and we intend to answer that call. Farmers, too, are hungry for reliable machinery. We exist to provide those tools. I still remember my very first encounter with Zoomlion tractors. A very reliable, powerful, and transformative tractor. That experience became the inspiration behind Jolu Machineries.

As of today, we are proud to have created employment for hundreds of individuals across Kenya representing a diverse range of skills from IT expertise, business developers, graphic designers, supervisory and technical roles. And as the General Manager, I take pride in steering this team with oversight and dedication.

But this is only the beginning. By the end of 2025, our target is to increase our workforce to 1,000 employees, strengthening our footprint and service delivery. For Jolu Machineries, we aim to sell 50 tractors by December this year, a milestone that will drive mechanization and productivity in agriculture.

This achievement today would not have been possible without the dedication of our teams, the trust of our clients, and the support of our partners. To every individual who believed in this dream, I say thank you.

Together, we are building safer communities, empowering farmers, creating opportunities, and writing a story of resilience and progress. Today, Jolu Group Security and Jolu Machineries officially stand tall in Nairobi – ready to serve, ready to grow, and ready to lead. Let us embrace the future with courage and determination. I thank you!
